

JUMPING JOE WITH A WINNER AFTER 5 YEAR SERVICE IN PHILADELPHIA

DUGAN WENT FROM COLLEGE TO MAJORS

One of the Very Few Who Have Made That Leap Successfully.

PLAYING SIXTH SEASON

Came From Holy Cross to Athletics in 1917—Got Here by Detour.

By DANIEL.

Folks meet Joseph A. Dugan, the newest Yankee, over whose transfer from the Red Sox there has been so much said in certain quarters lately. Much as some club owners hated the idea of Jumping Joe's going to New York, the proposition was altogether in accordance with the wishes of the one time Holy Cross star. When Joe was graduated from college he made the mistake of signing with Philadelphia and it took him nearly six years to rectify the error. He is one of the very few who have made a successful jump from college into the majors.

Some fans talk of Jumping Joe as if he were a newcomer in the American League. As a matter of fact and record, this is Dugan's sixth season in the Big Show. He finished his college career in the spring of 1917 and immediately joined the Athletics. He is a shortstop then—quite a shortstop. For five hard years Dugan labored in the cause of Connie Mack, but not without complaint. Playing for the Athletics for five years was no sweet vacation by any stretch of the imagination, even if it did not involve the strain of fighting for a place in the first division or a world championship.

This year Dugan's baseball ability finally got him his just reward. Harry Frazee first got him out of bondage last winter, but it had to be done in a roundabout way. Harry traded Bush, Jones and Scott to the Yankees for Peckinpaugh, Collins, Piercy and Quinn, and let us not forget, quite a chunk of change. Harry always insists on the siller in any deal he makes—and let us say he gets it. Having got Peckinpaugh, Frazee traded him to Washington for Dugan, O'Rourke and still another wad of dough. Washington got Dugan from Philadelphia for outfielder Miller, Pitcher Acosta and, it is reported, $30,000 in cash.

"Life Resembles Game of Football," Says Yost

Michigan's Veteran Coach Points Out the Lessons to Be Learned on Gridiron and Their Application in the Greater Battle for Success.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 5.—Life resembles very much the game of football, according to Fielding H. Yost, director of intercollegiate athletics at the University of Michigan, and for twenty-one years coach of the varsity football team there. And, according to this same authority, the man who plays football intelligently and correctly plays college better fitted for the battle of life. In reality, he contends, the same principles and axioms of conduct guide both games.

"Having played a clean game of football," said the veteran Michigan coach, "a youth can more easily and more successfully face life's problems. There are instilled into him certain principles, ideals and methods that help him immensely."

"All the axioms of the great gridiron game are apropos of the greater game of life. These axioms are drilled into the football candidates and I am sure that these principles help them later in life."

"The gridiron might be likened to the field on which life's game is played. The games are governed by certain boundary lines and rules. One should never get out of bounds; it slows up the game. That is, one should never be sidetracked from his goal in life. One must learn to face strong opposition without flinching, even if the opposition seems stronger than he can resist. Athletics must summon up determination, will, power, grit, courage and persistence to overcome any obstacle that may be in their way. Football men are battered in every game; they are not good players, however, if they don't come up more determined than ever. So it is in life."

"One should endeavor always to make his distance and never be held for down. Once stopped, however, he should not be discouraged, but come back with greater determination than ever before."

"When the game is going against him a real football player keeps his head up, sets his jaw and digs in all the harder. This is what tests the stuff he is made of."

"No one can win the game on his own side of the scrimmage line. He must be aggressive and carry the fight to the enemy."

"No game can be won to-day on what was done last Saturday. Every contest demands the best efforts of every player. Overconfidence has no place in football or in life. Too many games have been lost that way."

"The football field is the place to play the game, not to view it. The grandstands are built for the spectators. If a man takes his place on the field, he must play."

"A football player or a player in the game of life should never shrink the preliminary work. It is here that he gets the training which will enable him to make accurate decisions and to act upon them instantly."

"Not how little but how much one can give should govern in whatever he undertakes. There is no place on the eleven for the man who is doing the least bit."

"The man who puts the most into the game will get the most out of it."

"Every one must cooperate and do his part. The plays are planned for eleven men to execute, not ten."

"The football player is always ready to sacrifice himself. He gives the other man a chance at the glory if it means a victory for his team. He knows that the man who knows the game will see that he gets his due as a result of service."

"The orders of the coach, captain and trainer must be followed. Through their experience they know what is best to be done. In life it is always advisable to listen to men of more experience."

"The successful football player must take the initiative. He cannot always rely on someone else to think for him, but must work out his own problems."

"One must be self-confident without overconfidence. One must be willing to meet his opponent evenly, without giving ground."

"Mental poise is essential. A quick temper may result in your ejection from the game or in a penalty that will lose the contest. As in football, so in life."

AND AS FOR SPEARING THOSE HIGH ONES, JUMPING JOE IS SECOND TO NONE

Barry, Tesreau and Lobert Are Among Them.

HUSSEY IS FAVORITE FOR TITLE SPRINT

Stuyvesant Schoolboy Picked to Win Hundred at A. A. U. Junior Meet.

With the Junior track and field championship meet of the Metropolitan Association A. A. U. but two weeks away, there is considerable speculation as to the outcome of the nineteen events on the program and as to what club will carry off the team championship honors.

For the first time since 1909 when Abel Kiviat, then of the Curtis High School of Staten Island, defeated the best middle distance runners in the district eligible for the Junior class, it appears likely that one of the events on this year's junior program will be captured by a schoolboy star.

Frank Hussey, the crack sprinter of Stuyvesant High School, has signified his intention of trying for the 100 yard title in this year's championship meet, which is scheduled for Brooklyn Athletic Field on Saturday, August 19, and judging from the remarkable sprinting ability he flashed during the spring he will be able to show the way to the best junior talent in the district. He has been away at camp all summer and while he has not had an opportunity to compete he is in fine physical condition and his friends are confident he will win.

The Morningside A. C. is touting William Chanick, their clever quarter miler, as a sure winner in the double furlong, and Harry Morrell, also of their club, is the choice for the three mile walk. Clarence Sherman of the St. Christopher club, who was just named out for the national junior 600 yard championship title indoors last winter by Vincent Lally, the St. Anselms A. C. crack, is the best of the small club's entries for the half mile, but the New York A. C. has two or three middle distance runners whom they are grooming for the future, and it is claimed they will do close to a minute 50 seconds for 850 yards.

The New York A. C. has a big team in training for both the junior metropolitan and junior national championships.

AM 'INT' FEATURE

Former Brooklyn Hurler Has Won 14 for Bisons—Fothergill Heads Hitters.

There seems to be no budding Bob Fothergill from the batting leadership of the International League. The pudgy Rochester outfielder increased his average last week and now owns a robust .418. Fothergill, who recently was turned over to Rochester in trade for Archibald, who is in with Detroit in the fall, has made 112 hits, but only three of these were home runs.

Among the pitchers George Mohr, who was sent to Buffalo by Brooklyn, and Frank of Baltimore really are tied for the lead with fourteen victories and four defeats each. Bentley of Baltimore has won seven and lost one. The averages follow:

SEAGEL'S HITTING KEEPS HIM ON TOP

Ty Cobb Still in Front in the American League Race.

National League batting records show Casey Stengel of the Giants topping the hitters with a percentage of .408, although actual batting honors belong to Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals, who has a percentage of .391. Hornsby also made the most hits, 156, and leads the sluggers with twenty-seven home runs. Max Carey of the Pirates continues showing the way along the base paths with thirty-three stolen bases, and scored the most runs, eighty-seven. John Couch of the Reds heads the pitchers with twelve victories and four defeats for a pitching percentage of .750.

Jake Daubert of the Reds, who appears to be a confirmed hitter in streaks this season, wound up another prodigious hitting streak by going hitless before Rube Marquard on August 1. Up to this game Jake had gotten one or more hits in each of his last nineteen contests, during which Daubert punched out twenty-nine hits in seventy-six trials for a percentage of .382. Previously Daubert enjoyed a streak of hitting in twenty-two games. This stands as the longest hitting streak in the National League this year, and comes within one game of equalling Pratt's champion streak of twenty-three games. Besides the above streaks, Daubert maintained streaks of thirteen and nine games each.

Max Carey of the Pirates stole four bases against the Dodgers on July 28. This is the longest time he has gone since June 29, 1912, when Josh Devore, then playing with the Giants, stole four bases against the Braves.

Marquard Stops Burns.

George Burns of the Reds after hitting safely his last nine games was halted August 1 by Rube Marquard. During his period of hitting Burns punched out fourteen hits in forty-three trials for a mark of .325.

After winning six successive victories Jeff Pfeffer of the Cardinals lost to the Dodgers on July 28.

The Cardinals halted a trio of Giants who were on a streak of scoring in consecutive games on July 28. Dave Bancroft quit after scoring ten runs in five games, George Kelly after nine runs in six games and Casey Stengel, who had tallied seven runs in five games.

George Kelly of the Giants, after hitting safely his last ten games, was stopped July 30 by John Morrison. While hitting ten Kelly punched out nineteen hits in forty-two trials for a percentage of .450 and scored eleven runs.

Dave Bancroft of the Giants on July 27 probably set a record that has never been equaled in the major leagues. Banny scored a run in each of the first four innings.

Cy Williams of the Phillies, after enjoying a hitting streak of ten successive games, quit July 29 to the benefit of shoots of Ernie Osborne and George Stueland. During his streak Cy piled 17 hits in 42 tries for .405.

The major league home runs in the eleven games staged on July 29. Of this number the National League secured fourteen and the American League got seven.

Lewis Possona of the Reds was stopped by Burleigh Grimes of the Dodgers on August 3, after a batting streak that ran for eleven games in which he piled in 21 hits in 50 times at the bat for a percentage of .420 and scored ten runs.

Cobb Setting Pace.

The American League batting records show Ty Cobb of the Tigers' manager still holding on to the lead among the hitters of the American circuit with a percentage of .411. Lu Blue of the Tigers scored the greatest number of runs, 53. George Sisler of the Browns batted out the most hits, 155. Sisler also shows the way along the base paths with 34 stolen bases and Kenneth Williams of the Browns stole the slugger with 28 home runs.

The Yankees occupies hurling honors with 16 victories and 4 defeats for a pitching percentage of .800.

George Sisler of the Browns, while playing his one thousandth game on July 29, had the misfortune to get spiked while sliding into first base. During his seven years service with the St. Louis club, Sisler has won 106 games, went to the bat 3,965 times, scored 785 runs, got 1,400 hits, of which 231 were two-baggers, 91 were three-baggers and 91 home runs for a total of 1,594 bases, and stole 253 bases for a lifetime percentage of .353.

Jack Barry, former Athletic and Red Sox star, coaches Holy Cross, and he turned out to be one of the best players among the big league prospects. Jeff Tesreau, former pitcher of the Giants, is at Dartmouth, where he has pitched for several years and is becoming a fixture.

Jack Coombs, of the Athletics' great "twirling staff," sojourns at Williams College. Coombs, who is one of the college men who made the jump to the majors and stayed. Carl Lundgren, formerly pitcher of the Cubs, has brought another "Big Ten" championship to Illinois.

Ray Fisher, veteran New Yorker, is at Michigan; Bill Coughlin, third baseman of the Tigers years ago, directs the Lafayette nine, and Jack Slattery coaches at Harvard. Hans Lobert is at West Point. About thirty former major league stars are doing very well in this role.

Thirty-three Years in Baseball and Still Going Strong

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Playing right field for the Kingston Colonials, winners of the Hudson River semi-professional baseball championship last year, is Art Rice, who has been hitting for thirty-three years in the game is responsible for many victories. Rice broke into the game as a pitcher with his school team, but later he became a player and has been playing steadily since 1889.

Rice was signed up by the Philadelphia Athletics, but only ventured into the major leagues, but owing to a broken leg the year before and business engagements in Kingston he gave up professional ball.

Rice was a member of the Kingston team of the Hudson River League, the New Haven club of the Connecticut League, was claimed by Jersey City and later acted as captain of the Allentown club of the South Atlantic League. He played with the Hazleton club of the same league, Red Hook, Hoboken and Catskill teams, and since last year with the Kingston Colonials, organized by John J. Rice, who is now a member of the Philadelphia Athletics.
